

groups, where they do have an adequate grip on the content of what they aim to convey pre-read workshop on [redacted] national owing to their expressive style being Miranda Fricker's

Epistemic Injustice

[redacted] perpetrated by 03 April 2020 & 24 April 2020

[redacted] UNITOBLER

[redacted] presentations by and discussions with —

[redacted] with the same Dr. Melanie Altanian (Universität Bern)

[redacted] Dr. Deborah Mühlebach (Universität Zürich/Bern)

[redacted] Dr. Nadja El Kassar (Universität Zürich)

[redacted] organized by Sarah Heinzmann, Malin Plikat and Philip Pohlodek

The aim of this workshop is to explore the concept of epistemic injustice, which reveals an ethical dimension of epistemic life. We will read Miranda Fricker's book Epistemic Injustice - Power & the Ethics of Knowing. She investigates testimonial injustice, in which someone is wronged in their capacity as a giver of knowledge, and hermeneutical injustice, in which someone is wronged in their capacity as a subject of social understanding.

Program

03. April 2020 - Institute of Philosophy, University of Berne

09:00 - 9:30:	Introduction reading & discussion
09.30-10.30	Discussion Chapter 1, 'Testimonial Injustice' P. 9 -29
10:45 - 12:15	Discussion Chapter 2, 'Prejudice in the Credibility Economy' P. 30-60
12:15 - 13:45	Optional common lunch
13:45 - 15:15	Discussion chapter 7: 'Hermeneutical Injustice' P. 147-176
15:30 - 17:00	Input Presentation by Dr. Deborah Mühlebach, University of Zürich/Bern

24. April 2020 - Institute of Philosophy, University of Berne

09:00 - 10:30	Recapitulation Chapters 1,2 and 7
10:45 - 12:15	Input Presentation by Dr. Nadja El Kassar, University of Zurich
12:15 - 13:45	Optional common lunch
13:45 - 15:15	Input Presentation by Dr. Melanie Altanian, University of Bern
15:30 - 16:30	Conclusion
16:30	SW*IP (Society for Women* in Philosophy) Networking Apéro

Registration until March 22 to sarah.heinzmann@students.unibe.ch
Upon successful registration you will receive all relevant literature.

PLEP Master
University of Bern

SOCIETY FOR WOMEN* IN PHILOSOPHY
SWITZERLAND

u<sup>b</sup>

UNIVERSITÄT
BERN